

Comment on the author's position and the tone of the poem

"Lullaby"

Generated: Jan 26, 2026

Comment on the author's position and the tone of the poem.

Alfred Tennyson's (1809-92) "Lullaby" (1847) is a tender and comforting poem. It feels like a soft song that a parent sings to their child. The words flow like a gentle breeze. This creates a peaceful and loving mood.

Author's Position- Subjective: The author's position in the poem is subjective. This means Tennyson expresses personal emotions and thoughts. He shows the deep love of a parent for their child. The poem talks about the father coming home and the child resting on the mother's chest. These lines show a close family bond and the parent's care. The way Tennyson describes the wind, the moon, and the sea adds to this personal feeling.

Tone- Calm and Soothing: The tone of the poem is calm and soothing. It feels like a warm embrace. Words like "sweet," "low," and "rest" make the tone gentle and peaceful. The repetition of "sleep" and "rest" also gives the poem a relaxing rhythm. It sounds like a real lullaby. The poem's imagery, like "silver sails" and "rolling waters," creates a dreamlike scene.

In this "Lullaby", Tennyson creates a world of love and safety. The child is surrounded by the care of both parents and the beauty of nature. It's a poem full of affection and serenity.