"Kandari Hushiar" is a Bengali poem written by Kazi Nazrul Islam, one of the most renowned poets and cultural figures of Bengal. The poem, often translated as "Beware, O Sailor," is a powerful and evocative work that reflects Nazrul's revolutionary spirit and his call for awakening and resistance against oppression.

The poem employs vivid imagery and metaphors to convey its central message. It addresses a sailor, urging him to be cautious and aware of the treacherous nature of the sea and the dangers that lie ahead. The sea symbolizes the turbulent and unpredictable world, while the sailor represents the common people navigating through life's challenges.

Nazrul employs poetic language and rhythmic verses to create a sense of urgency and intensity. He emphasizes the need for vigilance and bravery, urging the sailor to hold onto his dreams, remain strong in the face of adversity, and never surrender to despair.

Through "Kandari Hushiar," Nazrul calls upon individuals to be awakened to the injustices and hardships surrounding them. He implores them to resist oppression, break free from the chains of conformity, and fight for their rights and dignity. The poem serves as a rallying cry, encouraging the masses to unite, rise against oppression, and strive for a better future.

Overall, "Kandari Hushiar" is a poignant and inspiring poem that encapsulates Nazrul's revolutionary ideals. It encourages individuals to be vigilant, courageous, and steadfast in the pursuit of justice and liberation, echoing the spirit of resistance and awakening that characterizes much of Nazrul's work.
