

Nurse's Song (Songs of Experience) Quotes

Writer: William Blake | Generated: Jan 26, 2026

Then come home, my children, the sun is gone down,

And the dews of night arise;

Exp: The lines symbolize the taking care of nurses to children, protection, and the natural transition from day to night.

"When voices of children are heard on the green,

And whisperings are in the dale,"

Exp: This line refers to soft sounds in a valley. It also displays a peaceful moment of children at the time of playing on a grassy field and highlights innocence, joy, and the harmony of nature.
