

Sir Roger in Love Summary

Writer: Joseph Addison | Generated: Jan 26, 2026

Sir Roger's Disappointment in Love: The essay starts with the narrator speaking. He explains a sad event in Sir Roger's life. Sir Roger had a big disappointment in love. This happened when Sir Roger was a young man. This unrequited love of his becomes a painful chapter in his life

Memories Connected to the Land: Sir Roger walks with his friend on his land. He shows the trees near his home. He says the trees remind him of a widow. He carved her name on the tree bark. Seeing the trees brings back old feelings. He always remembers his love for the widow.

How Sir Roger Met the Widow: Sir Roger shares his story with his friend. He got his estate at age twenty-two. He soon became the local sheriff (Representative of the king or government). One day, he saw a beautiful widow in court. She was there about her dower case. Sir Roger was drawn to her beauty. Her calm behavior caught his attention. He tried to impress her with fine clothes. He also used his best horses to impress her.

The Widow's Distant Nature: The widow was clever and charming, but distant. She enjoyed having admirers around her. She did not fall in love with anyone. Sir Roger tried hard to win her heart. The widow stayed apart and private. She liked to talk about love and honor. She shared her thoughts but kept feelings hidden. Sir Roger always felt nervous around her. He was awkward when talking to her.

Her intelligence and behavior towards fans: Sir Roger says she was very smart and witty. She was smarter than most men he knew. No man could approach her easily. Most men felt embarrassed or teased by her. Sir Roger visited her house many times.. She always had a friend nearby during visits. The friend made it harder for anyone to get close. Her Clever talk left him speechless and confused.

Sir Roger's Unending Feelings and Changed Personality: Sir Roger could never forget the widow. Small gestures from her meant a lot to him. Every corner of his land reminds him of her. He says she was perfect in looks and talk. He also says no man could truly reach her. The narrator thinks this love changed Sir Roger's life. It is why he is gentle and sometimes strange. Sir Roger's sadness is always close to him. He rarely talks about it with others.